

A woman in a white t-shirt and red shorts is walking away from the camera in a hallway. The hallway has a grey wall and a concrete floor. The background is a black wall with white graffiti. The text is overlaid on the top left of the image.

“The truth is that change—real change—comes in two steps: awareness and empowerment. Don’t underestimate the part you’re playing in raising awareness and empowering people with the resources and tools to fight slavery.
